

DAF Use Case 1- Local Data Access

Use Case Announcements

Please note the Local DAF Use Case has now been consented.

A copy of the consented Local DAF Use Case can be found here.

Information on Targeted Data Access (Phase 2) can be found here.

Local DAF Use Case Scope

The scope of the Local Data Access Use Case is to define the requirements for intra-organizational data access. The requirements in this use case will focus on the interchange between two applications within the same Local Health IT environment of an organization. The diagram below illustrates the scope within the larger workflow of a business user (Health Provider) accessing patient data within his/her own organization.

The use case and functional requirements will enable various types of data access mechanism: document metadata, data element and quality measure based access. All types of access may be done for individual known patients or for a population of patients given specific clinical criteria or parameters. Detailed definitions of each have been posted on the DAF Terminology for reference.
